FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

UK's Largest Married Dating Site Release Free Valentine's Day Survival Guide

In preparation for the most romantic day of the year, IllicitEncounters.com have released a free Valentine's day survival guide, packed with tips for down-trodden wives and play-away husbands.

The website, which creates a platform for married men and women to have affairs, hopes the book will help promote the brand, while providing members and non-members alike with an entertaining read. The survival guide is split into two sections; one for men and one for women.

An excerpt of the book is printed below :

"The Perfect Gift (For Your Mistress)

Mistress gifts are a completely different ballpark. You can afford to be a little more risqué with these; though don't interpret 'risqué' as 'disrespectful'. Same rules apply on price, though remember you've got two ladies to buy for, so don't go crazy...

Literature :

Good gift - Lady Chatterley's Lover : Masterfully written and highly titillating. Be prepared for booty calls to increase thrice wise...

Bad Gift - Anything associated with Mills and Boon : "Cynthia gasped as she felt his hard, pulsing member against her bare thigh". Vomit-inducing.

Underwear :

Good gift - Nurses uniform : Lovers are meant to push each other's boundaries. This will make her feel sexy, and...well, we don't really have to point out what effect it'll have on you.

Bad gift - WW2 Nazi Officer uniform : Some boundaries are not meant to be pushed. Observe.

For the bedroom :

Good gift - Handcuffs : A great way of introducing a little power play into the bedroom.

Bad gift - A gimp mask : Suggests you don't want to look at her face during sex. Or perhaps you wish you were making love to The Stig instead."
